Press Release: High Tech Pay Stubs Save Money for Employers, Make Life Easy for Employees

Tampa, FL (April 20, 2006) – Payday has entered the world of electronic information with a program created by National Payment Corporation called EZStub.

Paper pay stubs continue to exist, even though most employers now use direct deposit to pay employees. Today's technology enables employers to eliminate paper stubs and move towards less paper in the work place.

National Payment Corporation has announced the development of the latest version of EZStub, an electronic pay statement that replaces old fashioned paper pay stubs. Now employees can get their pay stub by E-mail, to their PDA, or sent to a cell phone.

"EZStub saves time and money for payroll administrators, human resource managers, finance officers, budget analysts, accountants, and CFOs. Employees love it because now they have instant access to their payroll records, without the need to get that information from someone else in the company. Employees also love to receive payroll information in real time, rather than waiting for delivery of a hard copy pay stub," explained Stacy Anthony of National Payment Corporation.

EZStub is currently used by companies as an outsourced solution to reduce printing, sorting, and delivery costs in their payroll department. Some companies enjoy the ability to use EZStub as an employee self-serve benefit that allows their employees to access their pay information from any location. Employers are able to reduce administration and production costs associated with payroll distribution of pay stubs.

"If employees need current or past pay information, they can get that from a secure web site with no need to take up the time of a payroll department employee. The value of a reduced work load and higher productivity to a company can be significant during the course of a year," said Anthony.

EZStub is the perfect paperless payroll solution. Many payroll processors and businesses use computers to process their payroll, and even benefit from direct deposit - but still continue to print and distribute pay stubs by hand or mail. EZStub is the final piece of the puzzle that completes the money saving process of a paperless payroll.
